She was born on a bitterly cold December night in 1626 and in the candlelight mistakenly declared a boy. On her father's death six years later she inherited the Swedish throne. She was tutored by Descartes yet could swear like the roughest soldier. She was painted a lesbian, a prostitute, a hermaphrodite and an atheist in that tumultuous age it is hard to determine which was the most damning label. She was learned but restless, progressive yet self indulgent. From Publishers Weekly Christina abdicated the throne of Lutheran Sweden in 1654 at age 28 presumably in order to convert to Catholicism. Buckley presents a wide ranging, entertaining exploration of the dynamics of the queen's decision and unusual life. The author
