The Festival and King's Theatres are two of Scotland's most historic theatrical venues and both have their own engrossing stories to tell. This book highlights their milestone moments and recollects the innumerable celebrated performers that created the legacies of the theatres. The King's Theatre, the Grand Old Lady of Leven Street, first opened its magnificent art nouveau doors to welcome the public into its sumptuously decorated auditorium. About the Author: Jack Gillon is a long-term resident of Edinburgh and has worked as a Town Planner involved in the conservation of the city's heritage of historic buildings for around thirty years and has an extensive knowledge of the city's history and art.
