Fifty-Five Years with Russia (Studies in Russian and Slavic Literatures, Cultures, and History):

The academic career of internationally recognized Professor of Slavic Studies Magnus Ljunggren spans more than a half century. Here he looks back over his meetings with prominent members of the Russian intelligentsia who from the liberalizing XXII Party Congress in 1961 and down to the present have in various forms struggled with the totalitarian structures of Soviet and post-Soviet society. As a literary scholar Ljunggren has focused on Andrei Bely's novel Petersburg. Magnus Ljunggren's history allows us to revisit many lesser known chapters from the cultural history of Russia's twentieth century. Like an experienced stage director in his emotionally charged narrative he shows the interconnections between the history of c
