By Angus Graham : Skipness: Memories of a Highland Estate Skipness: Memories of a Highland Estate:

The estate of Skipness had been in Campbell hands since 1511 when it was given to Archibald second son of the second Earl of Argyll The last Campbell laird Walter sold it in 1843 to William Fraser whose son in turn sold it in 1866 to the Grahams who had made their money in the grocery and wine trade in Glasgow It remained in Graham hands until 1936 Angus Graham's book is an affectionate and gently humorous account based on personal experience and family an About the Author Angus Graham born in Skipness in 1892 lived there as a boy went back as occasion offered in later years and maintained a close connection with the place until 1922 when after education at Oxford and war service with the Highland Lig
