Some ten thousand years ago hunter gatherers moving through a landscape newly emerged from the grip of the last Ice Age reached four islands on the western seaboard The shores they landed on were deserted After making camp they struck out to hunt and explore We know this because the evidence of their presence has been preserved down the millennia in traces of flint and quartz in charred fragments of grain and animal bone in great heaped piles of ancient shellfish lucidly written and beautifully produced a wonderful introduction to this often overlooked group of islands
